

PLEDGE FOR CANADIAN POLITICIANS

Asbestos kills 100,000 people every year by cancer and other deadly lung diseases. It is banned in 52 countries, including the European Union. The Canadian government has even removed it from parliament and the Prime Minister's home. Yet, Canada is still a leading exporter of asbestos to developing countries.

I believe that Canadians deserve a government that will take responsibility for deadly health impacts of the products we export.

As an elected official, I will work to ensure that the Canadian government votes in support of Chrysotile asbestos being included in Annex III of the Rotterdam Convention by the Conference of the Parties' Fifth Meeting (COP5) in Geneva, June 20-24, 2011.

In addition, I will support: The instituting of a just transition program for the 500 remaining asbestos workers and the communities they live in.
