A. Dealing with Social Media

Are you savvy on using social media, or are curious about it? How will it affect our members at the workplace? What are the legal pitfalls and consequences of using social media? How will your employer react to your Facebook/Twitter accounts during working hours? This half-day workshop will look at the emerging legal issues of using social media.

C. Political Action

This workshop will discuss political action. Some locals and members don't want to become "political". Participate in discussions on why we should vote and why we should be active at all levels of government. Municipal, provincial and federal politics affects us as workers. Join with others in learning about things you do within your local including communicating with members and learning lobbying skills to meet with your Town/County or City Councillor, School Board Trustee, MLA and MP.

B. Labour History

History has a habit of repeating itself, which is why it is so important to learn about the past. This workshop explores how unions came to be in Canada as well as some of the key moments in CUPE's history. Here's what one participant said about the workshop: "I see today's issues and struggles in a very new and different way." And another one said, "... learning about labour history changes what you do in the present and future. This workshop is a must for all CUPE activists."

D. Parliamentary Procedure

If you ever wondered what a "point of order" is, this workshop is for you. Understanding the basics of parliamentary procedure will help you to navigate your local meeting, learn how the union's business is done and have the confidence to play a more active role in union meetings and conventions.
